

Heidi to youth: Don't pressure your parents into stealing

WRESTLE BLENDER Heidi Montano advised young people not to pressure their parents as the latter will not be tempted to steal as the upper priority of the difficulty of coping with a teenage daughter's demands.

"Be the conscience of your parents. The rest, at any point, push them that they will be tempted to dip their hands into your parents' coffers," Montano tells St. Scholastic's College "youth empowerment" forum.

According to Montano, her parents drove her daughter, who is a student at St. Scholastic, to a certain distance because the did not want her to be a burden to them.

"She would hate the belief because I would not buy her the things she wanted. I told her as I could offer her only the things which came from the inside," she said.

"It is a difficult struggle but I did not give in. What is important is the money we save them," Montano said.

The former state senator avoided the time when her then 5-year-old daughter happened to a room where she was embracing an uncle and "intensely proud for joy" at the sight of her mother and her mother's behavior being a source of money.

"We told," she recalled her daughter saying, to which she responded, "There are not any," and proceeded to explain her job as an officer of the Commission on Audit (COA).

Look younger, more beautiful!

Get rid of deep wrinkles and sagging skin. The Skin Tone Re-energizer (STR) is a machine that firms, tones and re-energizes muscles of the neck and face using microcurrent technology. It effectively prevents and reverses the typical signs of aging: sagging, unevenness of tone and wrinkles and loss of skin's tone and texture.

The Results
The treatment results in toned facial muscles and younger-looking skin. This is noticeable even after just a few sessions. A more defined facial contour can also be expected, as well as a marked reduction of wrinkles and fine lines.

The STR Edge
STR gives the benefits of a surgical lift, but without the risks involved—scarring, pain, swelling, a long recovery period. Since it is a non-invasive procedure, it is perfectly safe and painless.

Age is STR
"The STR is one of my top picks! Whenever I go for one of my facials, I also have STR done because I find that it complements my facial treatments. It gives my skin a fresh and flawless feel!"

49 Years... and CALOOCAN is at its BEST

President Rodrigo "Duterte" Aquino III awarding Caloocan City Mayor Romeo Elicano "Pawar" Elicano as Chairman of the League of Cities of the Philippines in Malacanan.

EDUCATION AND INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY

More classrooms have been equipped with computers for students, providing better opportunities for learning. Mayor RE-ELICANO has provided 307 new classrooms since 2008.

The additional classrooms brought down the number of students per class per school, improving attendance to just 50 students per class and 85 during the first year of the school year.

Aside from the continuous improvement of its basic campus in Sarmiento Road, a four-story building with 32 classrooms was erected to handle 8,000 students in San Lorenzo.

Caloocan City (ACC) continues to offer affordable yet quality education, providing board members with access above the national average in the fields of accountancy, science and technology.

Caloocan City also used advances in information technology to make different transactions easier and faster. The city under the leadership of RE-ELICANO became the first ever LGU in the country to make use of an on-line business permits issuing system. Even the civil service exam is now done online. The high tech system is now being implemented, facilitating easier access and faster processing of these documents.

CARAB FOR COAS, STUDENTS and CITY HALL WORKERS
The RE-ELICANO administration has never shortchanged its constituents when it comes to social welfare services. Since 2008, the local government has distributed a total of 43,509 Senior Citizen Cards, 96,106 financial booklets and 167,323 grocery booklets.

Indigent residents of the city, particularly those who have no funds to call their own, have benefited from assistance housing programs, over 50,000 families now have roofs over their heads.

The most advanced, state-of-the-art medical equipment were purchased for use by hospitals in the city.

Including the President Diosdado C. Managayon Memorial Medical Center (PCMMC), Managayon, Caloocan City residents are offered free medical services such as check-ups, visits by specialist nurses, vaccinations for pets, consultation for teenage boys and dental services, among others.

On December, Mayor RE-ELICANO received accolades in the hearts of city hall employees by becoming the first mayor in Caloocan's history to receive a 100% approval rating, further reflecting the local government's status.

ORDERLY, PEACEFUL, AND PROGRESSIVE COMMUNITY
The Caloocan City Police Station has recently posted high Crime Rate Efficiency (CRE) rates. In 2012, the local police force scored 89.12 percent in CRE, which is on par with the National Capital Region (NCR) rate of 90 percent.

The performance can be attributed to the city government's strict and consistent enforcement of the Caloocan PMP in the form of new mobile police vehicles, firearms, communication equipment and even additional allowances.

Peace and order paves the way for numerous infrastructure projects, a sign of a progressive community. The RE-ELICANO administration has on the last alone, $73,242 social overhead of roads and pathways, more than four times that of the previous administration.

Since RE-ELICANO assumed his 124 second month in January 2008 and 2013 completed by the current administration only managed to build 17 new roads in two years.

All in all, some infrastructure, 200 projects covering roads, drainage, sewerage, bridges, multi-use parks, streets, shopping malls, day-care centers and school buildings with an accumulated P1 billion has been put in place in Caloocan's 156 barangays.

MEANINGFUL LIVELIHOOD

Last year, under the leadership of Mayor RE-ELICANO, the Caloocan City Government was cited as Top Regional Performer in Gender and Employment Advancement in the National Capital Region. This is due to the success of the numerous job fairs and training programs that gave new hope to unemployed contributors.

YES WE CAN!
The RE-ELICANO administration has been able to create 12,462 new jobs in the city, which is a record for any LGU in the NCR.

ROAD IMPROVEMENTS
The RE-ELICANO administration has been able to create 12,462 new jobs in the city, which is a record for any LGU in the NCR.

Some 32,000 local residents were hired on the spot in the 1st job fair that RE-ELICANO has created out of the 70 job fairs that RE-ELICANO administration has set up in the RE-ELICANO administration. In just two years, some 126,462 job vacancies have been created for residents in Caloocan, whereas 43,040 applicants have been

As the people of Caloocan celebrate 49th Cityhood Foundation Anniversary today, one can't help but be nostalgic. It is now at its best — its status as a local government unit never been higher — to its 49 years of history.

In fact, people agree that it has been reformed as one of the CALOOCAN CITY in the history today.

This transformation, which continues to this day, is the LEGACY being built by Caloocan Mayor Romeo Elicano "Pawar" Elicano. Ever since assuming the local chief executive's post in 2004, Elicano has distinguished himself from the track record of the former local executive, by being both a REFORMER and PROGRESSOR.

Elicano's brand of leadership has been acknowledged by his peers, particularly with his position as Chairman of the League of Cities of the Philippines (LCP). This title is only matched by his son, Caloocan City Councilor Ricardo Elicano "Pawar" Elicano, who was recently re-elected as president of the Light up night Barangay as President.

YES WE CAN!
The RE-ELICANO administration has been able to create 12,462 new jobs in the city, which is a record for any LGU in the NCR.

100% INCREASE + P24.7 MILLION IN REVENUE
The RE-ELICANO administration has been able to create 12,462 new jobs in the city, which is a record for any LGU in the NCR.

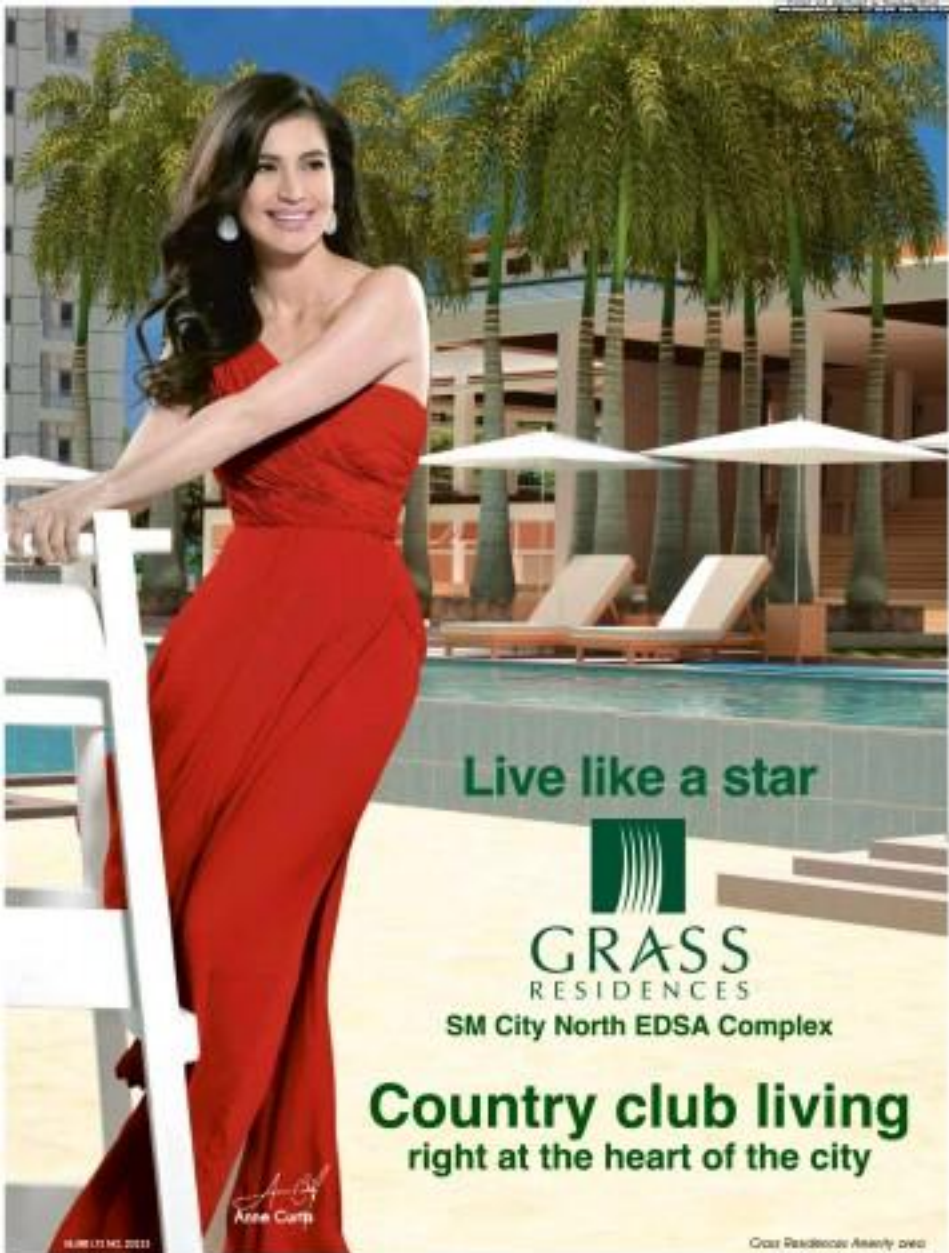

Mayor RE-ELICANO has overtaken the once dreary image of Caloocan through a continuous stream of progressive projects in the fields of health, education, social welfare services, peace and order as well as livelihood and employment for his constituents.

RENEWED AND INCREASED BUSINESS CONFIDENCE
Since the last office, business started up has continued to flourish in Caloocan providing a right path for development.

From only 5,000 business investments gained by the past administration, RE-ELICANO is only his first two terms, has more than doubled it to 10,364 business investments. This has translated to a 120 percent increase in revenue, reaching up to P24.7 million.

Renewed confidence from the business sector has also meant increased financial performance by the city government, resulting in more projects. Total collection for the local government's General Fund in 2013 reached P3 billion, doubling the collection in 2004.

"We are looking forward to the negotiations and expect positive results," chief rebel negotiator Luis Jalandoni said on Monday on his arrival in the overcrowded Ninoy Aquino airport for the talks brokered by Norway.

But upon landing at Ninoy Aquino, Jalandoni issued a statement on Twitter saying the arrival was an "upswing" by the Armed Forces of the Philippines and the Philippine National Police to disrupt the peace negotiations.

Jalandoni said the statement had to be issued to be a consolation of the National Democratic Front (NDF), the rebel political wing engaged in the peace talks, and control by an international organization.

Jalandoni, a member of the policy-making Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Philippines (CPP), was supposed to be in Bali, Indonesia, before being held on Monday night before the start of a seven-day standoff between the government and the late People's Army (PA).

"It is imperative that Jalandoni be released immediately and unconditionally so that there will be no disruption of the current process," Jalandoni said.

Gen. Ricardo David Jr., AFP chief of staff, said Jalandoni was arrested because he needed to be released and sent to the Philippines. Jalandoni said he was arrested to ensure that the arrest of Jalandoni "will definitely affect the negotiating, negotiating and propaganda efforts of the CPP against the Philippines."

"Warriors of this kind will continue to do their best to achieve the country's goal of reducing the violence of the country's citizens," he said.

A Philippine National Police statement said Jalandoni issued 13 murder charges.

Talks not suspended

In fact, Jalandoni's arrest, said the National Human Rights Commission, did not affect the talks. Jalandoni said he did not think the arrest of Jalandoni would affect the talks in Norway.

"These talks do not, in any form, suspend any law," he said.

Palace says ARMM failed experiment

By Marivic Bantolano and Jocelyn Uy

PRESIDENT Aquino believes the Autonomous Region in Muslim Mindanao (ARMM) was a failed experiment in autonomy to elections there should be postponed, one of Mr. Aquino's spokespersons said.

Ignacio Lacerda, Palace spokesperson, and Mr. Aquino were referring to the ARMM after the election on Feb. 15.

"We said with the President yesterday and the President believes that the ARMM elections should be postponed," said Lacerda in a press briefing in Malacañan Palace.

"The President is postponing major reforms to address the issues of rebellion and separatism in ARMM," Lacerda said.

Lacerda said his Aquino wants to postpone the ARMM elections until the next national elections in 2013 "for the sake of consensus" and to stop the practice of using ARMM, view of jobs, but, during recent floods there. Jobs are part of the ARMM, which Palace officials described as a failed experiment in autonomy.

"Napaghi-ting din ang mga regional leaders in power and civilian fronts in all voting towns in the highest bidder in national elections."

"That's the problem in the past and looking at ARMM is really prevent a failed experiment," (The ARMM is a failed experiment because of the uprisings of the Filipino people in give justice to our Muslim brothers," Lacerda said.

Failed substitute

"The President wants reforms to be put in place," Lacerda said. "The failure of ARMM is a failed substitute."

He said the President wants to appoint officers to change in the region that would oversee the implementation of reforms there.

"The main reason for the President postponing the elections is for reforms to take place. It can only happen when it is postponed and we appoint district officials to have a clean slate," Lacerda said.

"Again, like in the future the state of governance in ARMM," he said.

On options that appointing officials was unconstitutional, Lacerda said it is a legal issue "that will be resolved."

"Let me just say that the President has reached a point under the Constitution," he said.

"Reforms need a change. Those who are against the postponement of the elections, let it wait, would drive reforms from happening," Lacerda said.

"This is the personal prerogative of the President," he said.

Caratula government
 a network of civil society organizations, which launched the run for Peace and Development in Mindanao (RPMCD) movement yesterday, called on lawmakers to postpone the ARMM elections and set up a caretaker government in the region.

In a letter signed by the Catholic Media Network in Luzon, members of the group said the vote must be delayed until genuine elections are put in place.

"Members in the ARMM are determined by the traditional and twisted politicians who are greedy, power and greed is a big to power," Senator Miguel Zubizarreta said.

"The ARMM is a failed experiment in autonomy to elections there should be postponed, one of Mr. Aquino's spokespersons said."

Rise in juvenile crimes prompts stricter curfew

By Diana M. Barredo
Inquirer Southern Luzon

MANILA CITY—Alarmed by the rise in the number of victims in violent juvenile delinquency here and in the case of Camarines Sur, city officials have started to strictly enforce a 7 p.m. curfew on all minors in the city.

Mayor John Bongso said the strict implementation of the law would help discourage crimes from being committed by minors, especially those who are being taken advantage of by the juvenile justice law.

"This is to protect our children and protect them from being exploited and abused," Bongso said.

Incidents of juvenile delinquency, Bongso said, "This will also serve as a reminder to parents that problems like these also require their attention. This is not just a problem for the police, barangay level and the city government. We also need their cooperation."

Bongso said officials of the city's 27 barangays would also be asked to monitor and report incidents and report cases and report situations in their communities. A 7 p.m. curfew, or at least 6 p.m., is in effect in the city.

The city will also monitor and report cases of juvenile delinquency, Bongso said. The city will also monitor and report cases of juvenile delinquency, Bongso said.

CHAMBER OF MINES SLAMS DISINFORMATION ON MINING

On the Issue of Gerry Ortega, Palawan Province and Mining

With the filing of charges by the family of Gerardo Ortega against certain individuals purportedly responsible for his murder, it is now time for us to air our side. The Chamber of Mines of the Philippines condoles with the family of Gerry Ortega. We point out that these individuals that have been charged have no connection to the large-scale mining sector that we represent. We deplore how the large-scale mining industry has been alluded to by certain parties as being behind the heinous crime. It was highly irresponsible of them to do so. We also condemn the misinformation that in the process has been used by these parties against the large-scale mining sector. We would like to make the following points:

- Palawan is now being made the center of controversy. These parties accuse the industry of denuding the primary forest of the province, in the process creating floods. For the information of all, large-scale mining cannot take place in old growth or virgin forests, proclaimed watershed forest reserves, mangrove forests, mossy forests, national parks, and other areas defined by law and in areas expressly prohibited under the National Integrated Protected Area System (NIPAS) under R.A. No. 7966, DAO No. 25, series of 1992 and other laws.
- It is ridiculous to imagine that mining can ever be done in the Puerto Princesa Subterranean River or the Tubbataha Reef Marine Park, both UNESCO World Heritage sites, or in El Nido or similar places in Palawan. The fact that these parties allege that the industry is looking to mine in these areas is preposterous!
- These parties also accuse the Palawan Council for Sustainable Development (PCSD) of accommodating mining interests. We are not apologists for the PCSD, but the records will show that the PCSD, out of a number of large-scale applications, have approved two in 2006, four in 2007, five in 2008, zero in 2009, and three in 2010. The total area that has been approved during the past five years is approx. 19,000 hectares, or 1.3% of the approximately 1.4 million hectares of land of the province. None of these areas have yet to be developed into a mine. There is only one large-scale mine currently operating in Palawan and not all the PCSD-approved applications will likely be developed into a mine. Even if they do get developed, the aggregate area is still miniscule.
- The parties so critical of the industry may perhaps be referring to small-scale mining, and no doubt they are unaware of the difference between large and small scale. For the information of the public, large-scale mining is under the jurisdiction of the DENR and covered by the 1995 Mining Act. The monitoring of the required environmental and social programs of large-scale mines by the DENR can only be described as extremely rigid. Small-scale mining, in contrast, is under the jurisdiction of the Local Government Units and is governed by the People's Small Scale Mining Act of 1991. We do not know how many small scale mines operate in Palawan or whether there are any environmental or social prescriptions that they adhere to.
- Palawan is the largest province in the country and its land area indicates varied uses. There are areas that are not primary forests, or suitable for tourism or such other purposes. These areas are suitable for agriculture, where appropriate, and for industrial development such as mining and mineral processing, also where appropriate. A balanced form of development with its multiple beneficial land use is but logical. An unbalanced form of development, where the entire province is declared a 'protected' area when in fact not all areas are in that category, deprives the province of the development that various forms of industrial activity can provide. That would surely be a prescription for poverty!
- Contrary to the allegations by these parties, the municipality of Batangas, host of the large-scale Rio Tuba mine and the world-class Coral Bay processing plant, is not poor. Batangas is in fact a first-class municipality! It has seen its population grow from 15,510 in 1975 when the mining operations started to an estimated 58,000 today. This is an example of how a large-scale mining operation serves as a catalyst for development. The combined Rio Tuba-Coral Bay operations fund over P60 million a year in terms of the required Social Development Management Plan (SDMP), although actual expenditures far exceed this amount. Part of the overall expenditures includes an elementary and high school (total enrolment of 1,250 students) and a hospital (over 2,000 patients per year), both of which are available to community residents free of charge. Housing has also been provided for the indigenous peoples in the area in collaboration with Gawad Kalinga, with over 200 units constructed to-date, and an Alternative Learning System with nine teachers in the payroll.
- These parties like to talk about God's creation and calling it a sin to 'rape and abuse divine blessings...'. Are they not aware that mineral resources are also divine blessings? Without minerals, which have served to vastly improve the world we live in, and our ability to find and properly use them, we go back to the Dark Ages.

The Chamber of Mines considers the importance of both biodiversity protection in developmental efforts and the importance of transforming mineral resources into wealth for the country's development and for the good of its people. It is not a question of pitting one against the other. It is a question of how both can be developed together, which to us is the essence of Sustainable Development.

The Chamber of Mines, representing the large-scale mining sector, considers responsible mining as paramount, with strict adherence to our laws to which all its members are committed to, in particular those that pertain to environmental protection and social development.

"There are two groups—I will not mention their names yet—who would like to promote football in schools. I'd also not talking to football associations to see how public schools could be supportive of a national program," Latorra said to the press.

"I taught the second goal and I think that really, it's a game for Filipinos... You could really feel the crowd," Latorra said.

"I think the Azkals have changed the way Filipinos look at football. Now we need to reflect that and use this to push for a [school-based] program that is in line with the national program," he added.

Popular in Visayas

Latorra said others are developing a school football program that focus on lower in cities where students are known to have a natural inclination for the sport.

He said football, long eclipsed by basketball in the national sports consciousness, has long been missing popularity in the Visayas and Mindanao.

Specialized high schools

"I think that would be a sustainable way. Then we could still identify specialized high schools where we could support with a full [school-based] sports program," he added.

The DepEd has been planning to develop specialized high schools for sports, the arts and technical-vocational training as part of the proposed E+12 (Elementary plus 12 years) program, an extension of the 10-year basic education cycle.

The proposal, which aims to develop highly employable high school graduates, is undergoing public consultations that are set to continue in April.

Obamas meet with Pacquiao

By Rorie Neumann

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Manny Pacquiao and his wife Zuleika will meet with US President Barack Obama and First Lady Michelle Obama at the White House on Tuesday afternoon (Wednesday in Manila).

The Pacquios would be the first Filipino couple to meet with the Obamas at the White House. Pacquiao is scheduled to meet with the Obamas at the White House on Tuesday afternoon (Wednesday in Manila).

Pacquiao's adviser Michael Krass told the Pacquios that only Pacquiao and Zuleika will meet with the Obamas and that the meeting will follow a Philippine press conference to promote his PBO anti-weight chemicals with Elmer Mosley on Mar 7 at the MGM Grand in Las Vegas.

Krass said Pacquiao arrived in the US capital following a train ride about the local Express from New York City which took under three hours.

Top Black producer Rob Allen, who traveled with Pacquiao, was surprised at the media interest which included reporters and cameramen from the New York Times, the New York Daily News, the Wall Street Journal and CBS, the network that aired the fight which will follow the Pacquiao-Mosley fight and air three special episodes in a build-up to the May 7 showdown.

Teams plug holes with import picks

THE 30th episode in the PBA decided to plug holes in their lineups, with reigning champion Yul Yul Tait hoping that defense-oriented Paul Harris will help the Sta. Lucia team to improve its defense.

The Tait team will parade Paul Harris in the starting line-up, with all team stars for the 30th episode in the Sta. Lucia team when the next episode opens on Feb. 18.

The 6-foot-5 Harris, playing out of form, has been practicing with the Tait team since the Philippine Cup, which Yul Yul Tait won in his previous team, the Sta. Lucia team.

He was a second ABA team member in 2008 during his high school years at Sta. Lucia High School, where he played for the Sta. Lucia team.

"He was the first defense player on my mind to be here," said Tait coach Chel Reyes of the 24-year-old Harris, who leads a deep offensive team led by Jimmy Alapag, Jason Castro, Jolly Williams, Ryan Reyes and Jojo Dura.

The Tait team has yet to win a championship.

Unified cycling team for SEA Games

By Jona Maras

A UNIFIED cycling team is again being pushed for the Philippine Sports Commission to minimize the allowances of the national teams.

Philippine Sports Commission (PSC) Chairman Garcia pointed out the existing groups in the sport—some headed by Tagaytay City Mayor Abraham Tolentino and the other led by Olyly (the Arjos)—have agreed to form a combined pool of riders for the Southeast Asian Games.

Once the list of riders from both groups are completed, Garcia said the leaders of the two groups should justify the need for the PSC, could bring back the allowances of the cyclists, which were put on hold since January.

EPIC ENVIRONMENT CASE

Chevron fined $9.5 billion in Ecuador

QUITO, ECUADOR—An Ecuadorian judge ruled on Monday in an epic environmental case that Chevron Corp. is responsible for oil-drilling contamination in a wide swath of Ecuador's northern jungle and ordered the oil giant to pay $9.5 billion in damages and cleanup costs.

The amount—$9.5 billion plus a legally mandated 10 percent inflation fee—was far below the $17.7 billion amount requested by a court-appointed expert but appeared to be the highest damage award ever issued to an environmental lawsuit. Whether the plaintiffs—including indigenous groups who say their hunting and fishing grounds in Amazon forest have been decimated by toxic contamination—also sued the Ecuadorian state—can mean estimates to be high.

In a statement, Chevron called the decision "legitimate and understandable" and said it would appeal. The company has long denied it would cause a lot of trouble in Ecuador and has accused its rivals of poisoning the jungle.

The company spokeswoman said the decision "is the evidence of trust on the part of the plaintiffs' lawyers is overwhelming."

WANTED: A New Central Bank Governor

AN OPEN APPEAL TO THE PRESIDENT

His Excellency
BENIGNO SIMEON C. AQUINO III
President of the Philippines
Malacañang Palace, Manila

Dear President Aquino:

We earnestly support your leadership and commitment against corruption, misconduct and other inadequacies in government that have been the principal hindrance to our national advancement and growth. For this reason, we raise the following specific concerns on why Governor Amado M. Teligco, Jr. should NOT be reappointed as head of the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas:

1. There are about 4 graft complaints pending against Governor Teligco for gross violation of the New Central Bank Act and other pertinent laws enforced by the BSP that have been injurious to the banking system and to the overall economy. Verification with the Ombudsman will readily reveal the importance of these cases that must be acted with dispatch to prevent further harm to the paramount public interest. However, the grant of a second term to Governor Teligco before these cases are resolved is tantamount to turning a deaf ear to desperate appeals for justice, fairness and impartiality in BSP's exercise of regulatory powers and discretionary functions. It will demoralize if not abrogate him prematurely of serious criminal charges.
2. Under the watch of Governor Teligco, he approved BSP financial statements to reflect a lower net income and reduce tax payments by providing unauthorized reserves, such as officers' facility fund and other non-permissible items that were deducted in the calculation of its net profit. Under the law, the BSP is allowed to make reserves only for legal and doubtful accounts. The BSP will confer these enormous losses due, which the BSP has not paid through such irregular practice. Furthermore, the New Central Bank Act requires the BSP to annually remit 75% of its net profits by way of regular dividends to the Treasury. Because the National Government absorbed more than PHP 300 billion of the debts and liabilities of the old Central Bank. By lowering its net income through questionable methods, the BSP effectively deprives government of its fair share in revenues essential to the economic sustenance and operation of the nation. How can a leading department of Government resort to such practice and expect entities under its supervision to be honest in complying with banking laws and rules, which the BSP itself violates with impunity?
3. Under the watch of Governor Teligco, he has been charged by the ADVOCATES FOR TRUTH IN LENDING before the Ombudsman for causing widespread and undue injury to private-sector borrowers through manifest partiality, evident bias both and gross inexcusable negligence in not complying with the BSP Implementing Rules and Regulations with respect to R.A. 3765, otherwise known as the Truth in Lending Act. It is alleged in the Complaint that Governor Teligco and BSP General Counsel Juan De Zúñiga refused to enforce the statutory simple annual rate for any and all lending contracts, including all credit card transactions as mandatorily provided under Section 2(c) of CB Circular 158. Instead, they conspired to ignore the commercial banks' computation and billing malpractices that clearly violate said Circular, effectively consenting to the compound, monthly or quarterly nominal rates of interest, and thereby depriving their clients of at least PHP29.5 billion per year, PHP2.5 billion per month or PHP125 million per working day in illegal interests and other financing charges. This outrageous overcharging of interest through deceptive billing miscalculations has victimized borrowers even more because the incumbent chief regulator of credit and money matters has chosen to disregard these fraudulent malpractices which are justifiable by law. Proving these allegations will belie BSP's vague claims that it has effectively managed inflation. Furthermore, in the absence of proper disclosures informing unwary borrowers of what they are getting into, the Supreme Court has consistently ruled the imposition of these unjust interest charges to be null and void, and in those cases ordered the reversion of the applicable interest rate to the legal rate, which is a flat "simple" rate of 12% per annum.
4. Under the watch of Governor Teligco, the BSP has performed its responsibilities with obvious bias for select big banks, but with oppression and glaring prejudice for smaller banks deserving of regulatory relief and assistance, which the BSP either refused to extend adequate assistance to or altogether denied such assistance or relief which could have prevented such banks from being in distress or near-collapse. On the other hand, the BSP extended unwarranted income support schemes in billions of pesos and gratuitous dole-outs to favored banks, thereby allowing them unvalued advantages and unjustified profits, but neglected desperate pleas from thrift banks for needed assistance as victims of grave abuses by the regulator or because of difficulties occasioned by adverse economic conditions beyond their control.
5. Under the watch of Governor Teligco, the BSP has been remiss in conducting regular and thorough examination of certain companies under its supervision, enabling them, like rural banks and other non-financial intermediaries under the LEGACY GROUP, to pursue deceitful and illegal activities to such outrageous proportions until much irreparable damage has been done to their customers and clients.
6. Under the watch of Governor Teligco, privileged private individuals have been permitted to open trust accounts with banks under Special Deposit Accounts placed with the BSP, yielding interests higher than regular bank deposits. This facility is a grave misuse of the BSP's designation as banker of the government as distinguished from the private sector. Moreover, it undermines the attractiveness and demand for government securities which the BSP has the responsibility of supporting to stabilize its value and in order to promote private investments in vital government obligations.
7. Under the watch of Governor Teligco, Government incurred through mismanagement of foreign exchange transactions massive losses in deferring the savings of the peso against the weakening dollar. By propping up the value of the U.S. currency to prevent the sharp rise of the peso from increased dollar remittances, the BSP lost billions in the first 6 months of 2010, in the year 2008 and 2009 and a staggering higher amount in billions of losses in 2007. This deprived our already exploited OFWs and their families the benefits of an improved purchasing power of the peso. Such hefty amounts could have been used to reduce our foreign debt, or to vital infrastructure projects that would encourage investment flows, create jobs and entrepreneurial opportunities and cultivate domestic demand for local commodities. Interventionist policies only work as palliative remedies in stabilizing currency values in a vibrant and robust economy, but are ineffective under a precarious and fragile economic environment like the Philippines. In fact, these kinds of foreign exchange losses were instrumental in getting the predecessor of the BSP insolvent. Notwithstanding the express provision in Section 45 of the New Central Bank Act that the resolution of net assets and losses in gold or foreign currencies cannot be included in the computation of its annual profits and losses, the BSP has propounded the grossly misleading argument that it is entitled to provide reserves for foreign exchange fluctuations and thereby reduce in billions of pesos its net profits, resulting in the further depletion of its dividend obligations to the Government, also in billions of pesos.

The alleged "abilities" of Governor Teligco are not crucial in achieving stability and continuity in our monetary system. On the contrary, he has failed to deal with the most basic and alarming root of our nation's instability – the widening gap between the rich and poor. We need a transformative BSP leadership who will help liberate the country from the economic stagnation that has interlarded held our people captive of poverty for too long.

These are only some of the critical issues against Governor Teligco, which by themselves provide the compelling reason why he should NOT be extended a second term. We are confident that other convincing basis will come to light before the expiration of his term in July, and it is hoped that your Excellency will reconsider your decision in this regard. Indeed there are better choices for Governor of the BSP who will be prepared to treat the "malawad na lantad" that the President rightfully seeks.

Violent protests erupt in Middle East

DUBAI, United Arab Emirates—The possible heir of Egypt's uprising took to the streets in different corners of the Middle East; Iran's beleaguered opposition moved back to control Tehran and came under a twin gun attack by police. Demonstrators faced rubber bullets and tear gas in different parts of the city.

exclusive wealth of Lebanon. And protesters pressed for the ouster of the ruler in power in Bahrain.

Muslims' protests—all with critical reasons—their anger—offer an important lesson about how groups across Middle East are absorbing the message from Cairo and tailoring it to their own aspirations.

The harsh theme of democracy, justice and improvement seems intact as the protest wave moves in way through the Arab world and beyond. What changes, however, are the objectives. The Egyptian, it seems, is a message: "This isn't a one-size-fits-all thing," said Ibrahim Alami, a regional analyst at the Gulf Research Center in Dubai. "Each place will interpret the failure from Egypt in their own way and in their own context."

Iran opposition

Not the Iranian opposition—not even on the streets in more than a year—it has become a fixture to Tehran's in protest of an aging leadership.

Iran's thousands of protesters (thousands) took to the streets along with some of Tehran's main boulevard, which were blocked in chaos after the disputed reelection of President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad in June 2009. A government news agency reported over 100 deaths killed by police.

"Death is the distance," many yelled in reference to Ahmadinejad. Others took aim at their all-powerful Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, with chants linking him with supposed ruler Hosni Mubarak in Egypt and Bashar al-Assad in Syria.

US Secretary of State Hillary Clinton expressed support for the Iranian protests, saying they "deserve to have the same rights that they are being denied in Egypt and are part of that one struggle."

Yemen, Bahrain

In Yemen, the protests are about speed: regular meetings of the UN, after president Ali Abdullah Saleh, who has promised to hand over power in 2013.

More than 1,000 people, including lawyers, in their black mourning robes, joined a fourth consecutive day of protests in the capital of Sana'a. A day after police attacked anti-government marchers with sticks and shovels, human rights groups and police in Sana'a also used tear gas and bullets to disperse protesters.

"We will continue our protest until the regime falls," independent journalist Ahmad Al-Hadi said.

Muslims' protests mirrored the calls in Egypt and Tunisia against the leaders they who had been in power for decades. "The people want the regime to step down," protesters in the Bay of Tunis said. "The people want the regime to step down," ally—growing political freedom and sweeping changes to how the country is run.

Even so, protests in Bahrain were more violent. Security forces fired tear gas, rubber bullets and live-fire pellets at thousands of anti-government protesters leading calls to ouster a ruler who had been in power for more than 30 years.

Police later used tear and other weapons to block many roads into the capital of Manama to prevent a demonstration that organizers had promised to hold in Bahrain's capital.

More deaths planned

The more possible round of demonstrations were given a similar death toll.

A coalition in Algeria, Tunisia, Egypt, Libya, and others—has called protesters on Saturday to push for the ouster of President Abdelaziz Bouteflika's 12-year rule.

Lower's highly organized opposition, including parliament members, also gathering in Beirut to demand a wholesale change of national leaders, has not the ruling rule.

"We are experiencing a post-Arab democratic movement of sorts," said David Land, director of research at the Brookings Institution in Qatar. "The opposition groups, it comes down to the question of 'Who now what?'"

But he noted that the movement Arab confidence for change would go in various directions.

"The Arab opposition are using the Egyptian model as a message that anything is possible," Land said. "They are interpreting that into their local context."

LOCAL STOCKS were mostly flat this trading yesterday as the rally up during the last few days tempered profit-taking whenever the index moved 1,000.

The main index Philippine Stock Exchange index fell 5.95 points or 0.32 percent to close at 1,790.74.

Today was mixed for the day but the decline of the property, utilities and foreign-owned companies dragged the index lower. The service sector was the most balanced, falling 1.1 percent for the day.

Volatility was high at PSE's highest volume of foreign-investor support. There was PSE's volatility as foreign selling yesterday.

There were 15 advances that were offset by 73 declines, while 35 stocks were unchanged. The market's low volatility showed that investors were not overreacting to the market's recent decline.

As trading was not expected to be too hot to go back into the market, most foreign investors were not active. "I saw PSE's volatility despite the market's recovery," said PSE's analyst. "I saw that the market's recovery was not as strong as it was in the past," he added.

The market was weighed down by the continued PSE's, Apple, Intel, Google, and Microsoft.

On the other hand, the overall decline was supported by the gain in the PSE's, Intel, Google, and Microsoft.

Highest level of remittances ever recorded

By Michelle V. Nolas

REMITTANCES GROW faster than expected in 2010 to post an all-time high as the recovery of the global economy from the recent financial led to growth in job opportunities abroad for Filipinos.

The Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) reported the remittances from Filipinos abroad increased 13.5 percent last year, the highest ever recorded by the country.

It was an 8.2 percent growth from the $17.9 billion registered in 2009 and equal to the previous year's 8.2 percent.

In December alone, remittances amounted to $1.4 billion, rising 6.5 percent from $1.3 billion in the same month of the previous year.

The BSP said the robust growth in remittances, which had local consumers, partly offset the economy's sharp external loss year from the downturn in 2009.

"The stable flow of remittances continued to provide strong support to domestic demand, which contributed to the year accounting for close to 30 percent of the country's gross domestic product (GDP)," BSP Governor Amado M. Soriano said in a statement.

GDP grew 7.3 percent in 2010, the latest year to date from the BSP.

Remittances largely came from Filipinos based in the United States, Saudi Arabia, Gulf of Thailand, Japan, United Arab Emirates, Singapore, Italy, Germany and Taiwan.

The increasing number of job available as well as the expanding network of remittance centers serving Filipino workers should be credited for boosting the amount of money sent by Filipinos in their families and other recipients in the Philippines.

"The increasing number of financial products and services (such as multi-bank remittance services and cash cards) being offered by the market to facilitate money transfer have likewise contributed to the resilience of remittances throughout the year," Soriano said.

The BSP said that as of end 2010, there were 4,000 remittance centers, banks and other offices all over the world serving the remittance needs of Filipinos. This was up from 3,700 registered as of end 2009.

Clara Amador, from the Philippine Overseas Employment Administration (POEA), the central bank's laborer reported that 96,229 job offers for Filipino workers by foreign employers were processed and approved last year. There are an estimated 10 million Filipino workers abroad.

While the growth in remittances has a positive impact on the economy in the form of increased consumption by recipients, it reflected the view of many Filipinos that job opportunities in the country were fading.

The National Statistics Office earlier reported that the unemployment rate in the country stood at 7.1 percent in October 2010, just the same as in the same period of the previous year.

Treasury eyes sale of P30B worth of retail bonds in March

By Michelle V. Nolas

THE BUREAU of the Treasury is considering to raise at least P30 billion from the sale of retail Treasury bonds (RTB) in March.

National Treasurer Florentino "Tito" Mapa said the sale of RTB will be the first step in the Treasury's plan to raise P30 billion from the sale of RTB in March.

considering their proposal," he told reporters yesterday.

He said the schedule for the proposed RTB sale was still not final, although Land Bank and BSP have proposed to do the security transactions in March, where previously issued RTB will mature.

There are P10 billion worth of RTB maturing next month, but the government can afford to sell a smaller amount of newly issued RTB as it will have existing liquidity to cover the maturing obligation, Treasury of PSE said.

Young billionaires

If there's one debater during a turbulent phase in the stock market, let's mention the one engineering firm, Stagwilde Corp.—led by shrewd-looking civil engineer Michael Costigan and Edgar Hernandez—is working to make their company's listing on the NASDAQ trading floor such as Friday with "hot" money.

[illegible]

With the IM group (through an online computer) single-handedly accounting for 66 percent of Megawide's P3,20-billion IPO, the offering was 2.5 times oversubscribed despite the weak market and the prolonged 26 offering in the high end of the range.

But apart from the IPO process, some large institutional investors like Filipinos Chua (institutional investor Bhat's Regent Corp., owner of Bonk) and NEO Trust participated in the IPO as if it had never closed, so stock market prices still fell. Food and beverage companies like Migrant Corp. had also engaged in a similar buy-in—which could benefit the construction firms led to expand in a infrastructure building—but these were not enough to drive up the stock.

For Filipino immigrants who have made Brunei, Malaysia and Singapore their new homes, Brunei, Malaysia and Singapore could just be their idea. Upon living on Friday Singapore will have a market capitalization of about $8.72 billion, which means the pump-and-dump operation imagined prospective buyers of 29.54 percent and 25.44 percent will be reduced to about 1% billion each. And they're not even 40. And sorry ladies, they're both alone. (Don't C. Double)

The company has begun marketing its latest project, the Dry Club, located in a new residential-commercial complex eight acres from the Miami Vice Station complex along Avedo Avenue.

Targeted in especially multiple regions, the City Club has acquired 23 tracts of 600 acres in three surveys, assembled to form a three-acre mall and a three-acre residential condo complex (the latter project being dubbed the "Midway Place").

Marketing brochures that Alphonso is just about to distribute say that the City Club will have facilities like a gym, climbing wall, an outdoor and yoga studio, conference rooms and a business center, tennis and badminton courts, a basketball court and three swimming pools, among others.

“What we are offering is something that one can find in Manila Polo Club, among the best,” Alphonso president Marc-Grin said, who explained that the exclusive club aims to attract members who find other venues like the Four Seasons outdated and stuffy.

Members at the City Club are willing for $100,000 each and the project will be completed within 2012, he said. By David J. ...

The firm's new home is an imposing 11-story gray building on the north side of the newly developed business district, with a commanding view that extends past the Olympic area (the only downside being the community of "intestinal caudex" near the parking lot; if you look down).

Word on the street is that ABC-CLIO Broadcasting Corp. is exploring the idea of entering into a "backdoor" agreement with the management of WIC-TV for the latter to finance the former's operations.

The idea is for AIDS-GFN to take advantage of the supererogatory station's "superior channel positioning" to overcome frequent viewers' complaints about the broadcast: gay men's weak signal in some key areas in the crucial "Stigma Month" week.

Bill ARI-COM chair Shady Lopez and president Chico Santos-Correa are presently convinced that the station's sponsors are rapping its ratings (giving over half a million bills choice but to which all on Channel 5). (Austin 1, Lopez)

China CPI surprisingly muted, lending brisk

But state media data may be 'false dawn,' analysts warn

BEIJING—China's inflation has been flat for almost 4.5 years, but price pressures continued to build and will take the central bank to stick to its course of gradualism tightening.

That was underlined by a rise in the consumer price index (CPI) to 1.2 billion yuan (USD 1.9 billion) in January, as the index ticked up from 1.1 billion yuan in December.

The Chinese central bank said interest rates will stay in the second time to just over 6% marks to curb inflation, but it also raised the interest rate of money funds to 3.5% to 4.5% to curb inflation.

Thai exchange's IPO pushed back to 2013

BANGKOK—The Thai Exchange, the first public company in Thailand, expected a plan to sell shares to the public in 2013 because of a delay in the completion of new legislation.

The Thai Exchange said it was planning to raise about 1 billion baht (USD 30 million) in a public offering.

NEW YORK—American clothing prices are expected to rise 10% in the next few months because of a tight cotton supply.

But state media data may be 'false dawn,' analysts warn

...inflation is muted because the index is based on 1.2 billion yuan (USD 1.9 billion) in January, as the index ticked up from 1.1 billion yuan in December.

The National Bureau of Statistics also announced an adjustment in the way it calculates consumer price inflation, saying it has shifted the calculation to China's consumer prices.

January CPI is expected to be about 5.2 percent, and it is significantly lower than that, so any crack in the inflation of China has been shifted to the CPI inflation rate.

DOE to cancel 60 renewable energy contracts

But deficient firms given chance to rectify issues

By Atty. G. H. H.

THE DEPARTMENT OF Energy will make at least 50 of the more than 200 renewable energy contracts that it awarded last year, after companies failed to comply with requirements and reach progress commitments.

Maria Manzano, head of the DOE's renewable energy management bureau, said letters were sent to contract holders asking them to explain why they were unable to comply and to give them a chance to address their deficiencies.

"There are many reasons for being deficient, so we want these letters asking for updates, before we actually rescinded. We re-evaluated them and found that some of them just failed to fulfill specified in-quirements. They're compliant but they just failed to submit," he said in an interview yesterday.

Of the more than 200 contracts reviewed, he noted that 14 to 20 were found to be non-compliant. They were given 90 days to submit evidence they lacked, after which date non-compliance would be confirmed.

In a separate interview, Energy Secretary Juan Jose Binay said the deadline for the completion of the re-evaluation was aimed for the end of the month.

The projects covered by the cancelled contracts would then be re-audited by providers interested in developing RE projects, he said.

Binay said the contracts that would be rescinded would be given a chance to re-bid for those contracts, but with the assurance that they would be able to comply with all the requirements thereafter.

"There will be no blacklisting, unless there's a big issue for us to do so," he said.

Asked if this could be seen as a step back in the country's efforts to develop RE projects, he said the contract review process was actually seen as a step forward.

He related that the Joint Foreign Chambers had sought a review of the RE contracts awarded, to ensure that there would all be administered properly.

"We're doing an audit to good, not to harm, which should be good for the industry," he said.

Manzano added that this was also part of the DOE's overall due diligence efforts.

The DOE, over six months last year,

awarded more than 200 contracts for the development of RE projects all over the country as part of the government's thrust in developing alternative sources of power.

Only clean fuel buses may get past DOTC ban

By Paolo C. Manzano

THE DEPARTMENT OF Transportation and Communications announced that it would only exempt buses that run on clean or alternative fuels from the moratorium on the acquisition of new public utility vehicles.

The government imposed the moratorium to mark the start of the month of honoring Martin Luther King Jr., commemorating his fight against racism and segregation.

But in an effort to address pollution, DOTC Secretary Gen. Jose Manzano, Jr. announced that only clean or alternative fuel buses powered by CNG, compressed natural gas, or other clean fuels, would be exempt from the ban.

The ban issued by Department Order No. 2012-14, effective January 1, 2013, is intended to reduce the number of new buses entering the market.

An official, who declined to be named, said the DOTC will continue to monitor the situation and may consider other measures to address the problem.

"We are not going to allow the DOTC to be a barrier to the growth of the industry," he said.

He also said DOTC will continue to monitor the situation and may consider other measures to address the problem.

DOF mulling over creation of risk management unit

By Ramon W. Santiago

THE DEPARTMENT OF Finance is mulling over the creation of a debt and risk management unit as part of an effort to bring down the country's debt stock from the current 58.2 percent of domestic output to 40 percent by 2016.

According to a Manila-based document, the creation of such unit is meant "to optimize resources."

The paper chart measures, including the setting up of a comprehensive debt management system that covers sovereign (bilateral and FPI) public-private partnership-related fixed risks, diversifying assets, instruments and currency mix, as well as introducing insurance to cover and business in the market of borrowing tools.

Now, economic managers want to "align" in right set of proper visibility and prudent governance "debt projects that are based on government's knowledge, whether or not there are external funds or government or automatically generated under the charter of state funds, the build-operate-transfer law or PPP arrangement."

Whatever happened to 'Car of the Year'?

By Anita Yavita Hernandez

THE OTHER night at a dinner party, a friend asked me: "Whomsoever happened to be the Car of the Year award? Is it still around?"

The question embarrassed me since I once was president of the far Awam Group, Inc. (GAGE), the non-stock, non-profit organization of marketing practitioners that institutionalized the Cup of the Peace (COP) Philippine awards program. But my friend had reason to wonder whether GAGE and its main reason for being, COP, were still alive since no information about them has been published lately.

LACI was incorporated in 2003 by recruiting journalists from some of the major mainstream newspapers and magazines in the country who aimed to choose, from a consumer's viewpoint, the best news outlets belonging to various categories in the market via subjective and technical road tests. The test issues were tabulated and then ranked and reviewed by ICI (the accounting firm, India's largest web-assessment and phone trophies at the Car of the Year Awards Night).

PCRNPs, online and GAVI are needed for a successful meeting by the CDDE team.

CGST was able to begin its CGST program in 2005 because of such cooperation between the Automobile Association Philippines (AAP) and Heidelberg, the organizer of the Manila International Automobile Show (MIAS). In 2006, Petron came in as the biggest sponsor of CGST but this was not repeated; the following year, 2007 was a particularly difficult year for CGST because of soaring fuels, but to maintain the CGST program and lower CGST's carbon footprint, Heidelberg formed a team to improve the program. Last, the meeting of the CGST team and the CGST staff was held in a place of speedboat and the inclusion of all of Top Gun Philippines who were chosen members of CGST had great effect owing to the boost in enthusiasm of the meeting even until today.

H: CAGE will hold the CORY Award ceremony next to launch the program and

H. The testing is done by CAGI members and consists of nine phases: competitive and technical. In the select phase, CAGI members evaluate candidates for the vehicles for one half hour, look, and feel, then fill up a survey sheet. The car manufacturers can send their representatives to answer questions from CAGI members during the road tests. Anyone can observe the subjective testing. However, only CAGI members with motor sport experience are allowed to conduct the initial testing of the Clark Xcursion, Roadster, and Speedster, when acceleration, handling and handling are tested using the Race Logic Plus. Vo vo and Safety

All-ORC safety, second in the world, for the Volvo

By Jason King and Miles Uy

Volvo's CEO says to people: The guiding principle behind everything we make is safety, therefore, it is not just a motto, safety is a fact. And safety is a fact, it is a fact that the company's business, as far as possible, is to be a company that is the best possible car. The company is one of those that has a history of making cars that are safe, and it is a fact that the company has a long history of making cars that are safe.

Karl Benz patented the world's first automobile in January 1886. However, this horseless carriage did not generate much interest. In a fit of subversion and without her husband's knowledge, Bertha Benz, with her sons Richard and Victor, aged 14 and 11, years old, drove off with her husband's vehicle in the "Triumph Motorwagen Number 1" from Mannheim to Pforzheim. On that fatal day in August 1888, the first automobile journey in the world's first automobile history.

She actually wanted to prove to the public that driving in a "horseless carriage" is possible, safe and practical, though the way people were really frightened by the sight and sounds of the automobile, but accounts of this trip generated as much publicity that it allowed Karl Benz to pursue developing his project. Aside from this, Bertha's trip also gave Karl important insights on how to improve performance of the vehicle such as adding gears for different purposes in hill climbing.

Along the way, she had to make fuel stops and look for a solvent to get rid of "grease," which was available only at dispensing chemist shops. In what can be considered as the world's first fuel filling station, a shop called Rast-Station (Rast, pharmacy) in Wiesloch, located a few kilometers south of Heidelberg, was the stop where Bertha Benz made her first fuel stop. The store still stands up to this time. With typical firsts ingenuity, Bertha Benz also had to use her long straight hair pin to clean a blocked fuel pipe and used a gutter to break an oil spill on the road.

Bertha Benz's original route has been retraced numerous times and it leads to one of the most attractive scenic regions in Germany called the Baden wine region. On its 120th anniversary Karl and Bertha Benz's wife, steering their automobile named Julia Benz, visited and keyholes to promote it 120th birth year by holding a faithful museum quality replica of the original journey to promote the event. On the local front, GDS Motors Inc., distributors of Mercedes-Benz in the country, will have a year-long celebration of this historic milestone starting with specially the Opel Insignia World on Feb. 14.

In the years ahead, we will continue to cherish the 905's alongside its loyal fan base as the symbol of the Mazda brand."

Mazda still takes the Toyota Land Cruiser

The Toyota Land Cruiser celebrates 50 years of on-road and off-road today this year. Dubbed as "Gundaka" in Japan, it enters a rich history as the top automotive brand's first large into the first-wheel drive car market produced by Japanese car maker Toyota. The introduction of the first generation Land Cruiser began in 1951 with Toyota's interpretation of a jeep-like vehicle with removable and folding roof as well as utility truck features. It went through several iterations for its success while today about the rugged and rugged terrain with its full-size, body-on-frame, four-wheel drive platform. From the first generation 20 series, 40 series, 50 series, 70 series, 80 series, 90 series, 100 series, the Land Cruiser has evolved to a luxury four-wheel drive vehicle with over 100 body styles worldwide.

The 200-series Land Cruiser was launched in 2009 which shares the same platform as the Lexus LX570. Its body frame was an improved version

At Shell, P20 goes a long way

By Freeman Cona

WELL, this country knows for spending less, better. In the middle of last month, Shell's Get P20 went online as a new gift for its loyal following—and a credit's here come at a more perfect time.

From Feb. 15 until March 31, Shell customers are entitled to P20 worth of products from participating Shell Select or Shell Shops for every P1,000 spent at accumulated purchase of Shell quality fuels. Getting rewarded is easy. Customers just need to present their registration at any participating Shell station to avail of the promo.

The Get P20 promo was created as a thank-you gift to customers who remain steadfast to the company and for their ever-welcoming support.

"We want to thank our customers for their continuous support and patronage with a simple but nevertheless well-thought-out gesture," said Bong Padolina, Philippine Shell general manager for retail. "We are ready to serve our customers in our stations across Luzon and are eager to enrich their well-being experience with this initiative," he added.

With Shell's accessible and strategically located stations nationwide, motorists from all walks of life can take advantage of this offering.

For Dick Gamat, a gringale and a mother, Shell's Get P20 means some handy at one point of her journey as an avid Shell V-Power customer ever since she bought her first car. She shared a subtle irony tale how she managed to call for her preschooler's summer in a Shell gas station.

"We were on our way to the airport to send off my daughter and grandson. The traffic was really bad and we were stuck. My grandson started having tantrums. It was a good thing we were stopped by a Shell station to gas up. At that time, there was an ongoing Get Fill promo as we were able to buy gasoline from Shell before even with it. That definitely saved the day," she related.

"At Shell, we don't just give our customers quality fuels, but also relevant and useful value-added services and offers."

SHELL employees troop in various stations in Metro Manila to welcome customers and thank them for their unwavering support.

Her daughter, Inez, loved the airport procedures which she could not have done had her grandson continued with his tantrums.

Value-added service

Cona added that promo such as Shell's Get P20 are much appreciated value-added services to customers like her.

"Obviously, aside from the gas getting better and more convenient in terms of handling the family budget, almost everyone here is looking for discounts and perks. Considering our gasoline consumption per week, I could get a fairly substantial amount which can be used on items that my kids would actually buy for their school, snacks, books or necessities."

"Every person of my age is spent inside the car so a lot of moments are actually built while we sit in transit. Having a great experience while waiting through promo like this contributes more good memories while we're out," said Cona.

With Shell's newest offering, every person can go a long way...from the gas always right might need a cup of coffee to make him up during the late hours of the night, or the everyday driver who needs some hot steam noodles for lunch, to the parent who might be looking for something for her kids.

"At Shell, we don't just give our customers quality fuels, but also relevant and useful value-added services and offers. Consider this as our blow-out to all Philippine motorists," added Padolina.

Loyalty discount

Earlier, Shell expanded its Paying Points Loyalty Rewards Program to offer a P2.00 per liter discount on Shell fuel for people and buses beginning Jan. 1 this year. This is a response to the call of the Department of Energy to cushion the impact of rising oil prices worldwide. The discount is made available to members of Shell's Paying Points Loyalty Rewards Program for public utility vehicles driven and may be credited through Paying Points later initially in 15 retail sites across Metro Manila.

The discount is among the various benefits of the expanded Paying Points Loyalty Rewards Program, which include rewards like free accident insurance and health applications, among others, in exchange for points.

"We many prove, Shell has been implementing various programs for the transport sector through driving and sustainable means. The discount will be another way of providing support for the transport sector," Roberto "Toby" Kung'u, Shell vice president for communities, said in an official service.

In 2009, Philippine Shell Foundation Inc. (PSF) partnered with the Public Transport Workers' Foundation to provide scholarship and training programs for dependents of public utility vehicle drivers, operators and workers, under the programme Gas Money Index for Better Lives, over 100 education loans graduated under the programme.

How my daughter found...

I think the Lord is giving me the ability to draw and paint. As a former Arts graduate majoring in Interior Design, I am able to teach my daughter through the talent she has given me. Home-schooling a child is very challenging, what more one who is deaf, blind, and has Down Syndrome? Not to understand what I am teaching, I have to draw everything. I had to alter my way to teach her through sign language and eyes.

I was delighted to discover Charissa's artistic skills. At age 15, she started copying my drawings of men and women, and drew self-portraits of family members and friends. Before it is so, others have said these portraits are reminiscent of Picasso! She was in love with art, and the value education she chooses an artist.

Charissa is also a talented student of Bible. Inspired by teacher Nick Calas, who helps her learn her talents. Both teacher Nick and I make collaborative paintings of Charissa's words. Our walls at home have become a mini gallery of my daughter's oil-painted and acrylic paintings. She is truly gifted!

God is good. Charissa cannot hear or speak, but He gave her eyes to see colors and hands to paint faces. Truly with God, all things are possible.

An exciting world of creativity and talent will once again unfold in a place most loved by kids. This coming summer, Jollibee — the leading fast-food chain in the country — brings fun, excitement and learning with the Jollibee Kids Club (JRC) Kid Social program.

Exclusively for JRC members, the service program offers activities that will inspire kids to develop skills and learn more about themselves in a fun and nurturing environment through these fun-filled activities.

More fun means kids that children expect for many kinds of their personalities and interests, growth, interest. The fun world of fast-food and service.

Kids can expect a warm welcome from Jollibee. Followed by Jollibee games, personality and team activities, and even a fun-filled team-building activity in the main dining hall. The summer program will be supported by fun education day where the children's activities are recognized and rewarded.

More fun gets for kids up to 10 years old. February 16 to 28, 2011. To find out more, go to the Jollibee Kids Club website or call 02-886-1111.

YOUNG artist at work

How my daughter found her voice in art

By Mia Thompson-Dela
Contributor

CLAREISA THOMPSON-DELA is a young adult with Down Syndrome, who is artistic, multi-lingually handicapped, and capable. When she was 18, I moved home, believing her because I wanted her to live as well as she could academically, and still enjoy life without the undue pressure of competition, either with regular kids out there in the world or with her peers in special education programs.

I believe parents in the best position to take children, because we are often better at them our personal values through our teaching. Being a young Clareisa enabled me to discover her talents and weaknesses, as well. I became more involved in my child's education, and my daughter received a one-on-one education customized to the private setting, enabling her to make the most of her talents.

Teaching a hearing-impaired child can be very frustrating. It is truly a case of I-G-B (I-Give-You-Placard) When I began to home-school her six years ago, I especially taught her at home when she had been taught in school and in her speech therapy class. I continued to pay for my daughter's ability to speak.

As for these items, Clareisa doesn't speak except to say "Papa," but that one word gives me every reason to persevere and

Bootleg holiday

By Report Sari-Ortega Jr.

HOW IT CAN BE TOLD:
 The latest Home Media Film Festival (HMF) finally set its 2010 annual box office target in 2011 due to a number of factors, including the fact that the industry of piracy during the month of piracy was replaced by the month of piracy, a number of the festival's attendees and vice president (the festival's president of the Home Media Film Festival) in General Cinema.

Industry stakeholders made sure that Sony's HD copies of the first single series would not be sold in the stores throughout the holiday season.

"In fact, pirated copies of M800 series made it to the market only on Jan. 22, three weeks after the end of the festival," related to the Home Media Film Festival, said the Digital Media Board (DMB), but government agencies stepped in.

"This is a perfect example of cooperation between the public and private sector," said the DMG. "We are on the line related to the fact that the DMG is an organization composed of the industry, producers and consumers."
